IT TOOK MILITIA TO MOVE RECORDS

TOWN RIVALRY CAUSES A RIOT AT FULTON, ILL.

The Modern Woodmen Fight—Court Orders Removing the Records Is Resisted — Lieut-Gov Northcott, Adj.-Gen Reece and Others Attacked—Rock Island Victorous.

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 1.—After violent rioting Thursday afternoon at Fulton all records of the head officers of the Modern Woodmen of America Head Clerk Hawes and his deputies arrived in Rock Island at 9 o'clock at night. A few of the records were brought down on the steamer Hennepin and the rest, with the clerks, came on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway.

The streets of this city were crowded with people shouting over Rock Island's victory, while bands were playing and the city was ablaze with red lights.

Lieutenant-Governor Northcott, head consul of the Woodmen; Adjutant-General Reece and three of the Woodmen's clerks were attacked and beaten by the Fulton mob while attempting to board the train for Rock Island. Sheriff Fuller was also attacked. He and Lieutenant-Governor Northcott were locked up in the station. Adjutant-General Reece escaped, went to Clinton and telegraphed, ordering out several of the Illinois militia companies to protect Lieutenant-Governor Northcott and Sheriff Fuller, whose lives were in Peril.

At the same time Lieutenant-Governor Northcott sent the following telegram to the governor:

"Fulton, Ill., Sept. 30.—Hon John R. Tanner, Springfield, Ill.: There is a howling mob and my life is in danger. Reece has left town. Send troops at once. The sheriff and I are penned in the depot.

"W. A. Northcott."

As soon as this message was received Governor Tanner responded by wire to Sheriff Fuller:

"Have ordered five companies, including Morrison company, to report at Fulton by the quickest route, with orders to protect life and property and enforce the order of the court.

"John R. Tanner, Governor."

The companies ordered to Fulton were Company H of Monmouth, Company M of Rochelle, Company G of Dixon, Company D of Galesburg and the Morrison company.

In rapid succession Governor Tanner received additional messages as follows:

"I have exhausted the civil authority. Send the militia at once. We are penned in at the depot.

"C. C. Fuller.
"Sheriff of Whiteside County."

"General Reece is in Clinton, Iowa. He was attacked on the train on his way over. W. A. Northcott."

"Please wire militia to come here at once. City authorities are powerless.

"W. A. Northcott."

"Mr. Northcott is imprisoned in depot at Fulton by a mob. He has wired Reece, whom he supposed to be on this train, to send troops at once. Reece is at Revere house, Clinton. I think the situation very dangerous. Mob attacked Reece.

"WILLIAM JACKSON."

At 9:30 Gov. Tanner received a dispatch from Lieut.-Gov. Northcott saying that the mob was under control and troops would not be needed unless a fresh outbreak should occur. The governor thereupon telegraphed the captains of the several companies not to embark for Fulton, but to hold themselves in readiness subject to further orders.

The countermanding order came too late, however, to stop one detachment, company G, of Dixon, which, closely followed by State's Attorney Stager with sixty deputies from Sterling, arrived just before the head consul left on a north-bound train. Upon the arrival of his train the troops were drawn up on the platform and the head consul boarded the baggage car and disappeared. Upon his departure the crowd dispersed. The two commands were assigned quarters until ready to leave in the deserted Woodmen's offices. Everything vital to conducting business has now been removed to Rock Island, but the fight is not ended and will be at once begun in the courts.

A delegation of Modern Woodmen and Fulton citizens went by special train to Judge Ramsay at Aledo Wednesday night to obtain a stay of proceedings in the Modern Woodmen removal case. Judge Ramsay refused to grant it. Thursday Fulton's attorneys were at Rock Island, where the hearing had been arranged for, but Judge Gest remained at Morrison and dissolved injunction No. 6. The news was hardly received in Fulton before the Woodmen's officials carried the seal and charter out of town. Thereupon the rioting began and continued all the afternoon.

GOES TO BOSTON.

Their Baseball Club Will Fly the National League Pennant.

Boston won yesterday the baseball pennant of 1897, defeating Brooklyn, while Baltimore went down before Washington. Boston can lose its final game to Brooklyn and Baltimore by winning all of the four games it has yet to play can only tie. The chance that Baltimore will win its four games is but slight, while Brooklyn has at no time shown winning form against Boston. Both of the Boston victories have been decisive. If, as is reported, Baltimore does not intend to play its two postponed games, it is already out of the race. The games must be played and won for even the forlorn hope of a tie. Scores:

At Baltimore—

Washington	2	0	1	2	4	0	0	0	0—9
Baltimore	1	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	0—3

At Brooklyn—

Boston	0	5	2	1	0	2	1	0	1—12

IRRIGATION CONGRESS.

Declares for Federal Control of Reservoirs in Arid Regions.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 1.—At Thursday's session of the national irrigation congress ex-Senator Carey of Wyoming, the new president of the congress, scored a triumph by securing the next meeting for Cheyenne.

Federal and state control and maintenance of reservoirs in arid districts was the rock upon which the congress seemed destined at one time to split, but a preponderance of sentiment favorable to federal control was shown on a vote to adopt the majority report of the committee on resolutions.

A supplemental report of the committee on resolutions pledged the support of the irrigation congress to the Hermann bill now pending in the national house of representatives providing for the cession to the states of 1,000,000 acres of arid lands was adopted.

Massachusetts Gold Democrats.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 1.—The state convention of the "national" Democratic party of Massachusetts assembled in this city Thursday. Moorfield Story was the permanent chairman. His speech upon assuming the gavel was in large part a review of the tariff legislation of the last congress and of the currency question. It also gave expression to unalterable opposition to the platform of the Chicago National Democratic convention. Dr. William Everett was nominated for governor. The platform declares for the gold standard. Free trade is indorsed.

Spanish Leaders Consulted.

Madrid, Oct. 1.—As a result of the interviews Gen. Azcarraga, the retiring premier, and Gen. The opinion is general that Senor Sagasta, the liberal leader, will succeed Gen. Azcarraga.

Iowa Politics In Court.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 1.—Chairman Belange of the fusion-populists Thursday began an action in the district court to test the action of the state board of elections in permitting the bolting, or middle-of-the-road, populists to use the name "People's party" on the official ballot. The case is set for immediate hearing.

Must Dodge Warships.

GAGE IS TROUBLED OVER THE QUESTION

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY IN A QUANDARY.

Gold Certificates the Canse—Questions Of Authority Worries the Holder of the Financial Portfolio—Ex-Secretary Carlisle's Decision Stands In His Way—Views of Bankers.

New York, Oct. 1.—There has been some talk in banking circles of the possibility of the treasury department issuing gold certificates now that gold is piling up in the vaults and currency is decreasing.

A dispatch received in Wall street says that Secretary Gage is confronted by a decision made by Secretary Carlisle, when the treasury gold fell below $100,000,000, that the reserve, having once fallen below the amount mentioned, gold certificates could not be issued again, even if the reserve went above $100,000,000, unless the issue was specifically authorized by congress.

President Cannon of the Chase national bank saw nothing that made the issue of gold certificates needful, but thought that the issuance of such certificates was entirely within the province of Secretary Gage.

Vice President Hepburn of the National City bank said: "I believe that legally the issuance of gold certificates is entirely within the option of Secretary Gage. There is no question that the treasury needs currency. If the present conditions continue and there are further gold imports, as in my opinion there are sure to be, it will not be long before the treasury will have to settle its balances in gold."

Must Repair All the Docks.

New York, Oct. 1.—A special meeting of the naval-dock board was held Thursday at the Brooklyn navy yard to consider the reports as to the disabled condition of all but one of the timber structures owned by the government. The only exception is the timber dock on Puget Sound. Engineers have estimated that it will cost at least $500,000 to put the timber docks in condition, and the dock board is expected to recommend that this money be spent on the structures at New York, League Island, Norfolk and Port Royal.

Greek Cabinet Gives Up Office.

Athens, Oct. 1.—The Greek cabinet has resigned. The boule met Thursday and considered the peace treaty with Turkey and the political situation in general. M. Ralli, the premier, invited the chamber to vote confidence in the government. He proposed a resolution to that effect. Amid great excitement the chamber defeated the resolution by a vote of 93 to 30. This defeat precipitated a crisis. It is deemed impracticable for M. Ralli to continue in office with the cabinet as now constituted.

Mine Riot at Edwardsville, Ill.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 1.—At an early hour Thursday when the miners employed in the Madison Coal Company's shafts at Edwardsville, Ill., were going to work they were attacked by a mob of strikers, who were incited by thirty or more women sympathizers. The strikers threw stones and cayenne pepper and beat their opponents with clubs, but no shots were fired and nobody was killed. The miners were finally allowed to go to work.

Tammany Names Its Candidate.

New York, Oct. 1.—The Democratic convention of Greater New York named Richard Croker's choice, Robert A. Van Wyck of Manhattan, for mayor. No mention of the Chicago platform was made in the resolutions, nor is there any reference to the financial question. It is chiefly on local isms, personal liberty, dollar gas, repeal of the Raines law and municipal ownership and operations of franchises.

Neal Dow's Hours Numbered.

Portland, Me., Oct. 1.—General Neal Dow is still alive, but so low that he can hardly live another twenty-four hours. SPRING VALLEY MEN WILL NOT YIELD

WILL NOT ACCEPT LESS THAN COLUMBUS SCALE

The Mainstay of the Strike—If They Go To Work at Prices Less Than the Scale the Miners of Pennsylvania and Ohio Will Have to Accept a Relative Reduction.

Spring Valley, Ill., Sept. 30.—The northern Illinois miners are more determined than ever. They are at present regarded as the mainstay of the great national strike. If they go to work at wages lower than the scale the miners of Pennsylvania and Ohio will have to accept a relative reduction. If the miners of the east give up 10 per cent of their wages, which was decided upon at the Columbus convention, to the miners that are still fighting the battle, victory for the men seems assured. The threat of the operators that they will allow their valuable plants to lie idle all winter before they will pay the scale is not scaring the miners any in this section, and reports are received here that they are just as firm all over northern Illinois.

It is rumored here that the operators who are still standing with the association against the Columbus scale are about to offer a compromise scale. The sentiment of the men here is against any compromise or anything that would lead to another break in the fields that are paying the price.

HAS RUSSIAN SUPPORT.

Ameer of Afghanistan Safe in Resisting British Aggression.

Paris, Oct. 1.—A dispatch to the Politique Colonial from St. Petersburg says the Afghan mission to Russia has returned home, bearing the promise of Russian support in the event of Great Britain encroaching upon the ameer's territory.

Continuing, the dispatch says that negotiations between Russia and Abyssinia continue with the object of establishing a league to oppose the British advance in Africa, and it is added that Russia is about to reach an understanding with the United States with the view of arresting the extension of the British empire in the Pacific.

MAY REJECT OPINION.

Indications That the Treasury Department Likes Section 22.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 1.—Thursday morning Collector Jackson of this port received the following dispatch from the treasury department: "Suspend collection discriminating duty on imported goods via Canada, also liquidation of entries until further orders."

By those familiar with customs usages and particularly the method of procedure in the treasury department the dispatch is taken as evidence beyond question that the department does not concur with the opinion of the attorney-general, and that possibly his advice will not be followed.

"Lynching Incident Is Closed."

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 1.—Willard New, judge of the Circuit court of Ripley county, says that if the governor and attorney-general are doing anything toward securing indictments against the men who participated in the Versailles lynching he does not know of it. The judge spent five hours in the city without calling on the governor or attorney-general. He declares that the "lynching incident is closed." The judge will not call the jury together again, as he cannot see how it will be possible for it to accomplish anything. The neglect of the judge to call on the governor has led to the belief that he is offended because the state officers have superseded him in conducting an inquiry.

Samoa Again Bobs Up.

London, Oct. 1.—A dispatch from Berlin to the Daily Chronicle says that according to a well-informed Hamburg correspondent President McKinley has instructed the new United States consul at Berlin to give an opinion as to an alteration of the Samoan treaty. It is believed that the United States intends to invite a new conference. Germany is certain to object strenuously to any weakening of her hold upon Samoa. The complete cession of the group of islands to England would meet with far more support here than an American occupation.

Gold in Indiana.

Mishawaka, Ind., Oct. 1.—A decided sensation was created here when it was announced in a guarded manner that the men engaged in laying a sewer line on Second street had unearthed a vein of gold. A thorough examination by a practical goldsmith and assayer shows the portions of mineral to contain a large per cent of copper and sufficient indications of gold to amply repay the work of mining the same and having it separated from the ore.

Mohmands Punished Enough.

Simla, Oct. 1.—The campaign against the Mohmands has been successfully concluded and nothing now remains but to collect the fines. The upper Mohmands have been severely punished and the lower Mohmands, cowed by the success of the British troops, are accepting the terms of the British commanders.

DISCARDS ALL BONES.

Prof. Allport, for Luetgert, Discredits the Exhibits of the State.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Professor W. H. Allport, in his testimony in the Luetgert trial, discarded the remainder of the bones presented by the state and identified as human. The alleged temporal bone, he asserted, is a conglomeration of pieces of bones fused together; the metacarpal and others were declared to be old bones which may have come from the mound builders' age; the remaining exhibits are, he said, in such a condition that no one can identify them as human. On cross-examination the witness identified the femur of a musk ox as that of a hog and the femur of a monkey as that of a dog; he declared a male femur to be a female, and from another femur gave the height of the skeleton as four feet and seven inches, when in reality it was five feet and three inches. He also admitted that he would not positively adhere to his statement that some of the bones could not be human.

RAVAGES OF YELLOW FEVER.

Plague Slowly Spreading Throughout New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 1.—There is neither improvement nor aggravation of the yellow fever situation here. Cases were numerously reported and as early as 6 o'clock threatened to equal if not exceed the number of Wednesday night, but at that hour the death record was small.

The fever seems to be slowly spreading around town, but up to the present time no nest of cases has been found, and the authorities have thus been able to carry on their work of quarantine with some success. Many of the new cases within the last few days have been found in houses where sickness already existed, but the instances are rare where the cases have been transmitted from one house to another adjoining.

Are Going Oil Mad.

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 1.—Coming so soon after the development of the Peru field, intense excitement has resulted over the completion of the biggest oil well yet drilled in Indiana. It is twelve miles northwest of this city, and has a daily average flow of 1,500 barrels. Oil men are rushing pellmell to this county, and are gathering up leases by thousands. People are oil mad, and all who have started gas wells have decided to go deeper for oil. The value of land has greatly enhanced, and poor tracts that went begging last week for $30 an acre cannot be touched for less than $125.

Alleged Bank Robbers Taken.

Deadwood, S. D., Oct. 1.—Officers have arrived from the Hole-in-the-Wall country, having in their custody the three missing Bellefourche bank robbers. The men, who give their names as Frank Jones, Tom Jones and Walt Putner, deny any connection with the robbery of the Bellefourche bank, or that they are members of the Curry gang, so much wanted in the northwest for various crimes. One of the posse which arrested the three was a witness to the hold-up and is positive they are the right men.

Laymen Score Again.

Richmond, Ind., Oct. 1.—A large amount of business was disposed of at the Indiana Yearly Meeting of Orthodox Friends Thursday. MEN OF THE CHURCH ENTERTAIN BISHOP

RECEPTION AT CHRIST CHURCH PARISH HOUSE.

Brief But Appropriate Addresses by the Guest of Honor and Others—Twelfth Anniversary Celebrated by tae Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church.

The blessing of the altar of Christ church was fittingly followed by a reception tendered by the gentlemen of the church to Bishop Nicholson. Mrs. Wm. Ruger and Mrs. A. H. Barrington assisted in receiving the guests. Supper was served in the parish house dining room the repast being an elaborate one. Autumn leaves and flowers made the room doubly attractive.

Dr. J. B. Whiting officiated as master of ceremonies and expressed the spirit of the occasion in these words, spoken from the heart:

My Friends: We have with us a distinguished prelate, the diocesan head of the church, the Bishop of Milwaukee, our bishop, our spiritual guide and in a sense, a large sense, too, our mediator our friend always. From an ecclesiastic standpoint he comes to us under the authority of the great Master who founded the church. "The men who baptize our babes and bury our dead; who join our sons and daughters in holy wedlock; who lay apostolic hands on our heads as we bow at the altar for confirmation, and devoutly implore God's blessing upon us, are very near to our hearts and very dear to us. I always feel stronger and better for clasping hands with my spiritual adviser, and try to renew within my self that spirit which Paul commended 'Forbearing, one another, forgiving one another,' and I am much honored by my rector in being assigned to preside at this gathering and bidden to pronounce the name of our beloved Bishop, the Right Rev. Isaac L. Nicholson."

Bishop Nicholson responded most appropriately, and expressed his gratification at being able to meet the men of the city. The gathering made a strong picture, he said, and effectiveness was added by the beautiful background of young ladies. In the course of his remarks the bishop alluded pleasantly to the saying of a friend, that a bishop ought to make a good politician. He told of being on a railway train, returning from confirmation. Being acquainted with quite a number on the train, he shook hands with some ladies and kissed several babies. A gentleman in the end of the car eyed him quite closely and finally asked him if he was not Bishop Nicholson.

He replied that he was when the man said he recognized him from pictures he had seen of him in the newspapers. "I was just thinking," he said, "what a good politician you would make." It was William Silverthorn, the democratic candidate for governor. The bishop said that he was a politician, that he once held the honorable position of mayor. He believed that church members should all strive to be politicians in the true sense of the word. He was glad that the gathering present was not an organization. There was oftentimes too much organization. Organization would not produce life, but life would result in organization.

The bishop was obliged to leave abruptly at the conclusion of his remarks. Mrs. Nicholson is lying at the point of death and the bishop left on the 7:30 train for Milwaukee in order to be at her bedside. Dr. Whiting expressed the sympathy of those present, the expression being emphasized by a rising vote.

During the evening brief remarks were made by Capt. Pliny Norcross, C. E. Pierce, R. J. Richardson, Rev. W. H. Wotton, Rev. G. W. Dunbar, V. P. Richardson, O. H. Brand, B. B. Eldredge, E. M. Hardy, Col. William Ruger and Rev. A. H. Barrington. and a vote of thanks was tendered to the Daughters of the King for the evening's entertainment. As a further mark of appreciation it was proposed by Col. Ruger that at the next meeting members of St. Andrew's brotherhood entertain the ladies and cook the meal themselves. Those present last evening were:

ANNIVERSARY FITLY MARKED

Twelfth Year of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church

The Woman's Missionary society of the Presbyterian church celebrated its twelfth anniversary last evening. Supper was served in the church parlors at 6 o'clock, followed by a social hour. At 7:30 R v. E. H. Pence conducted a short devotional service, and then introduced Mrs. T. C. Winn of Kanawaza, Japan, who gave a most interesting talk on her work as a missionary in Japan, where she has been for twenty years. Mrs. Winn began by saying that the people are not so enlightened as is commonly reported, the mass of the people still being very ignorant and superstitious Buddhism is on the wane, and the greatest obstacle to missionaries now is infidelity, the people going from the worship of many gods to no God. Christianity among soldiers is discouraged, as if they become christians, they must worship a higher authority than the emperor, which will not do.

Glaring inconsistencies are sometimes seen in new converts, for instance, partaking of the Lord's Supper on one day, and burning incense at a grandmother's grave on another. This is not the case with older Christians. The great work is the schools which assist very much by training native workers. One of the best lines of work is the orphanage where homeless children are taken care of and given employment and schooling. When the orphanage was first established the children, were employed in making match boxes, and some of them were so nearly starved that they could eat the paste that was given them to work with. They are now making brushes of various kinds, some of which Mrs. Winn exhibited.

Mrs. Winn spoke of the happiness of the missionaries in their work, expressing sympathy for those who could not go and engage actively in the work, but admitted that those who stay at home have compensations.

After the lecture a free will offering for missions was taken.

THIS IS NEW YEAR'S WEEK

Jewish Ceremonies Which Began September 26 Will End October 11.

The Jewish new year is now being observed. There will be no local demonstration, as there are no Jewish organizations in this city, but in Milwaukee these will be elaborate observances in the synagogue. This year in Jewish chronology, is the 5,658th since the creation of Adam, counting the years of the patriarchs in the bible. Next year will be a leap year, which comes every eight years, and consists of 384 days. The Jewish new year's day is made one of deep religious observance, and is called the day of judgment, and by the fathers was called the day of memorial. According to Jewish doctrine, both biblical and talmudical, sins can be wiped out, cause and effect, and atoned for only by sincere repentance, and the new year is made the first of the ten penitential days which close with the day of atonement, October 6, which brings remission to the penitent. On Monday, October 11, occurs the feast of the tabernacles.

PROSPECT FOR TROLLEY LINE

There Is No Chance of Running It South of Rockford.

The proposed electric line between this city and Rockford and Dixon is still a leading topic of conversation in that section of the countrol. Jason C. Ayres was interviewed by a Sun Reporter regarding the possibility of the construction of the line from Dixon to Janesville.

Mr. Ayres has just returned from New York city and has received no information regarding the new Janesville road and furthermore stated that the Dixon-Rockford road has been indefinitely abandoned. In the former attempt to establish a road Mr. Ayres was one of the chief promoters and he gave much time and work to the enterprise. From his experience he became convinced that the time is not yet ripe for a road down the Rock river valley. The people do not want it.

HEALD TO WORK FOR BUTLER

John Kelly Gets the Janesville Horsemen a Place In New York.

When Joseph Heald sold his horses Speck and Mattie E. Gould last week to Belvidere parties he had an object in so doing. On the 6:30 Chicago passenger train this morning this same Heald was a passenger and in his inside pocket was a ticket for New York City. On his arrival in New York he will sign a contract to work for Millionaire Joseph Butler, whose stables are managed by John Kelly of this city. It was through Trainer Kelly's influence that Heald was able to secure his position. Three of the fastest horses in the country, Direct, Royal Victor and Barren Crisp, are in the Butler stable.

MANY SAW WRECK CLEARED

Fully a Thousand People Watched While the C. & N. W. Crew Worked.

Fully one thousand people watched the wrecking crew clear away the freight wreck on the cut-off yesterday afternoon. From three o'clock until late in the afternoon the wrecking derrick was kept swinging, so that the track might be cleared in time for the St. Paul-Chicago passenger. The wreck was a difficult one to handle on account of being partly on a high trestle.

LUETGERT CLUES POINT THIS WAY

THREE MYSTERIOUS WOMEN CAME TO JANESVILLE.

State Attorney Deneen Wants to Know About Two of They and Attorneys For the Defense Are Trying Hard to Find Out About the Other.

Janesville has suddenly become a center of interest in the Luetgert case. State's Attorney Deneen is trying to trace two women who passed through this city May 20, making a pedestrian tour from Spokane to New York. The theory of the state is that the two are likely to be the people seen by Peddler Opdyke. A clue to their identity was secured in a dispatch to the Gazette from Orfordville, May 21, which read as follows:

Orfordville, May 21—While Mrs. O. P. Bostwick was going to her home in Evansville, from Orfordville, she overtook two women, Mrs. H. Eastby and daughter, who, for $10,000, have walked from Spokane, Wash., to New York City. They are now on their return trip and are now making a portion of the distance on foot for the purpose of taking some views which they had taken upon their first trip but were unfortunate enough to lose. They were entertained over night at Evansville by Mrs. Bostwick and started the next morning for Madison. They have taken notes upon their trip, and these will be turned over to the gentleman who is to pay the $10,000. He will soon publish them in a volume.

As will be remembered Opdyke met the two women one of whom he believed to be Mr. Luetgert between this city and Lake Zurich, Ill., (quite a long stretch by the way) on the night of June 10.

A Janesville clue that has more interest for the defense in the case came to light in a Gazette of June 8. On June 7 a woman sixty years of age and answering Mrs. Luetgert's description in many respects came to the jail. The Gazette's story on the case was as follows:

Mrs. Caroline Carroll, aged sixty years, arrived in the city last evening, claiming that she had walked all the way here from Portage. At 7:30 o'clock a knock was heard at the main entrance to the jail, and Sheriff Acheson, who answered it, was confronted by Mrs. Carroll. She was a little woman, not over five feet tall, and would not weigh one hundred and twenty pounds. She was ushered into the office, where she sank into a chair, and after resting a few moments, she told a most interesting tale. She said that she was footsore from walking, and that for the past three days she had been continually on the tramp, having started from Portage. She claimed that she was without money, and not being particularly in love with riding in box cars, deemed it for her own interest to walk. Sheriff Acheson escorted her to Adam Holt's hotel, where she was given a room, and after breakfast this morning she resumed he tramp. She claimed to be on her way to the home of her relatives near Quincy, Ill.

Both these clues are being followed carefully by Chicago attorneys

MOSHER'S HEAD CUT OPEN

Crept Out On a Wagon Tongue to Stop Runaway Horses.

William J. Mosher was driving a team for J. F. Spoon & Company yesterday afternoon when the horses ran away. As they turned on Court street and crossed the bridge he climbed out on the wagon tongue to try to recover the reins. A misstep threw him between the horses and he was struck by the wagon wheel. A gash six inches long was cut in the scalp and the flesh peeled back from the head. Dr. James Mills put twelve stitches in the wound to hold the severed edges.

THE OLD WAY

Of Treating Dyspepsia and Indigestion by Dieting a Barbarous and Useless One.

We say the old way, but really it is a very common one at present time and many dyspeptics and physicians as well consider the first step to take in attempting to cure indigesting is to diet, either by selecting certain foods and rejecting others or to greatly diminish the quantity usually taken, in other words the starvation plan is by many supposed to be the first essential.

The almost certain failure of the starvation cure for dyspepsia has been proven time and again, but still the moment Dyspepsia makes its appearance a course of dieting is at once advised.

All this is radically wrong. It is foolish and unscientific to recommend dieting or starvation to a man suffering from Dyspepsia, because Indigestion itself starves every organ and every nerve and every fibre in the body.

What the Dyspeptic wants is abundant nutrition, which means plenty of good, wholesome, well-cooked food and something to assist the weak stomach to digest it. This is exactly the purpose for which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are adapted and this is the method by which they cure the worst cases of dyspepsia. in other words the patient eats plenty of wholesome food and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest it for him. In this way the system is nourished and the overworked stomach rested, because the tablets will digest the food whether the stomach works or not. One of these tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat or eggs.

Your druggist will tell you that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the purest and safest remedy sold for stomach troubles and every trial makes one more friend for this excellent preparation. Sold at 50cts. for full sized package at all drug stores.

OTIS SKINNER NEXT WEEK

His Presentation of Prince Rudolph Will Be a Dramatic Treat.

A coming theatrical engagement of much more than usual interest is that of Otis Skinner, which is announced for next Tuesday. Otis Skinner is one of the greatest favorites upon the American stage, and takes rank above any actor in the country in the estimation of the critics in the delineation of the great male roles of the romantic and the Shakespearean drama. The play which Mr. Skinner will present is a new one, a romantic comedy which has been adapted from one of Robert Louis Stevenson's most charming and powerful novels The actor has been successful in preserving the charmingly delicate atmosphere with which Mr. Stevenson has surrounded his people, and he has turned out a play which cannot fail to please the most captious. The story is dramatic and the situations and climaxes are all that can be desired The play is called "Prince Rudolph." Mr. Skinner's leading lady is Maud Durbin, whose success in the trying role of "Juliet" was so great that the critics hailed her as the successor of the late Adelaide Neilson. His leading man is Frederick Mosley who has occupied a similar position with several American stars. "Prince Rudolph" is very handsomely put upon the stage and its presentation should prove a treat to theater goers.

The bicyclist's Best Friend" is a familiar name for De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve, always ready for emergencies. While a specific for piles, it also instantly relieves and cures cuts, bruises, salt rheum, eczema and all affections of the skin. It never fails. C. D. Stevens.

CROWDED HOUSES FOR LINK

The Loose-Lipped Minstrel Made Money After He Left Janesville.

Billy Link, who did not make a barrel of money in this city, fared better in Dixon, Ill, the two following nights. At both performances he had crowded houses, and his show gave great satisfaction. Link's wife lived in Dixon, when he married her, and old acquaintance might have made a difference.

Small precautions often prevent great mischiefs. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are very small pills in size, but are most effective in preventing the most serious forms of liver and stomach trouble. They cure constipation and headache and regulate the bowels. C D Stevens.

HER PRIDE WAS HUMBLED.

But Only After She Had Confused Her Adjectives.

She entered the hardware store with the air of one who confers a favor on the earth by continuing to exist upon it, says the New York World. She was as portly as middle age and high living could make her and as slender as French stays and a tailor-made gown could force her to be. She looked through the clerk with her lognrette and then said:

"Have you alabaster plates and cooking utensils?"

"Alabaster?" faltered the clerk. "I don't think we have, madam."

"Surely you have," she retorted wearily, as one who is very tired of having to teach people what they themselves ought to know. "All stores must keep them. They are quite common."

"We do not," replied the clerk deferentially, "or at least we do not call them by that name."

"Probably not," said madam, contemptuously. "Then see if you recognize them under the name of fireproof?"

"Oh," cried the clerk, a great light breaking upon his brain. "You meant asbestos, not alabaster."

And for the next fifteen minutes the stout, imposing lady had a little less the air of conferring a favor upon the community by living.

COLOR OF THE SKY.

It Is Not Blue as Poets and Other Simple People Suppose.

Did it ever strike you to inquire why the cloudless depths of the sky above us are so delicately blue? It isn't that the gas we call air is in itself blue. As far as we know, it is quite transparent and absolutely colorless. No, the blue comes from the reflected light. Air is never pure. You couldn't live in it if it was. Countless millions of tiny particles, chiefly of water, are always suspended in it, and these arrest the free passage of light. Each particle has a double reflection—one internal, the other external—and so the reflected rays suffer the usual result of what is called "interference" and show color. You will notice that the sky appears much bluer if you look straight up than if you look across toward the horizon. The reason is that, in the first instance, you are naturally looking through a much thinner layer of air than in the second. If there was no air, and consequently no watery vapor, and nothing to interfere with the free passage of light, even at midday the sky above would look perfectly black and all the stars plainer than at present they do at midnight.

No man or woman can enjoy life or accomplish much in this world while suffering from a torpid liver. De Witt's Little Early Risers, the pills that clean that organ quickly. C. Stevens.

How Fast Wild Geese Fly.

During the three days ending March 22 numerous flocks of geese were seen migrating northward, or, rather, northeastward, since they were following the general trend of the coast line, which, in New England, is nearly northeastward north of Cape Cod. On the morning of March 22, while A. E. Sweetland and I were measuring clouds, at the ends of a base line 1,178.4 metres in length, extending from the Blue Hill Meteorological Observatory to the base of Blue Hill, we succeeded in measuring with our cloud the odolites, the height and the velocity of flight of one of these flocks of geese. So rapid is the velocity of flight that the flock was visible to the observer only about two minutes, but during that time two sets of measurements were taken with the theodolites on the leader of the flock. The first measurements, at 8:49 a. m., were accurately taken at the observatory station, but were only approximate at the other station. The second measurements, at 8:50 a. m., were accurate and simultaneous at both stations. Using the second set of observations at both stations for the height and the two sets of observations at the observatory station for the velocity, the calculations gave the height as 905 feet above the Neponset River Valley, or 960 feet above sea level, and the velocity of flight at 44.3 miles an hour. The direction of flight was from southwest to northeast. On a previous occasion we found a flock of ducks flying from the northeast at a height of 958 feet, with a velocity of 47.8 miles an hour.—Science.

Step Off the Moving Train.

Passengers are to have an opportunity to board and leave trains which are in motion at the Paris exposition of 1900 by means of a new system devised by a French civil engineer. The idea was suggested by the moving sidewalk of the world's fair. The outer circumference of a circular platform is to travel at the same rate of speed as the passing train. There will be no dan- a staircase in the center, where the speed is comparatively low. In advancing toward the edge the increase is gradual and anticipated. The station attendant overlooks the entire platform from a tower in the center, and should there be a heavy crowd he causes the train, by means of switches, to run around the station, allowing ample time to discharge and take on passengers. It is proposed to work trains and platform at a speed of seven and one-half miles an hour.

The Spartan Virtue of Fortitude

Must be possessed in no ordinary degree by those who bear the pangs of rheumatism without complaint. We have never heard of such an individual. But why not, ere the life long martyrdom begins, extinguish the germ of this atrocious malady with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the efficacy of which as a preventive of the disease, as well as a means of relieving it, is well established and amply attested, during the last forty-five years, over professional signature? It expurgates from the blood those acrid principles which beget the pain and inflammation characteristic of this complaint, which, it should be recollected is always liable to terminate life suddenly when it attacks a vital part. The Bitters also expels the virus of malaria from the system, remedies dyspepsia, kidney complaint, constipation and biliousness, quiets the nerves, and invigorates the whole physical organism.

Deal With English Syndicate.

Boise, Idaho, Oct. 1.—Advices received here tend to confirm the reported deal for the sale to an English syndicate of the famous Rossland mine and the Leroy. The officers of the company at first pronounced the story false, but it is now learned that a deal is really on and that the amount involved is $5,000,000. Colonel I. N. Peyton of Spokane and Senator Turned of Washington will leave at once for England, it is said, to close the deal. An examination of the property has just been completed by Edgar Rathborne and W. Hamilton Merritt, well known mining experts, and their report is said to be favorable. It is rumored that a number of smaller mines near the Leroy will be included in the deal.

Warship Oregon Ready to Sail.

San Francisco, Oct. 1.—The battleship Oregon is rapidly filling her bunkers with coal, and, according to the instructions received by her commander a few days ago, will remain in the bay ready to go to sea on a few hours' notice. It is thought by her officers that, if she is not ordered to proceed to Honolulu, she will be sent to Puget Sound.

"Why should I prefer to sharpen it?"

NO REASON FOR COMPLAINT.

There hasn't been as much harsh talk from Spain in the last few days and it may be that the Spanish government is coming to its senses. It is understood that General Woodford explained to Madrid officials how well the United States has been obeying the neutrality laws in the Cuban matter. The general could truthfully have said, though probably he refrained from saying it, that it was the vigilance of the United States which has kept Spain's flag flying over the part of the island which that country still controls. A few filibustering expeditions have escaped the vigilance of the United States authorities, but they are only a small proportion of the number which attempted to leave this country, or which would have left had the government been lax in its duties as a neutral.

A STRONG TICKET.

There seems to be a very good chance that the republican party will win in Greater New York this fall. This is as it should be. There was no reason why a handful of of schemers should be allowed to force a candidate on the party, and there seems to have been very little popular backing for the Low movement. General B. F. Tracy, the republican candidate is a man of high distinction in his party, having been a delegate to its first national convention. He organized three regiments during the war and led one to the field. His career as secretary of the navy is well known, and he is one of the most eminent lawyers of New York. He was the presiding officer of the framers of the charter of the enlarged city, and is in every way especially well fitted to be its first mayor.

NO SET-BACK THIS YEAR.

Ohio dispatches agree that the republican stump speakers in that state are drawing large crowds. This is a good indication. Apparently more interest is taken in this campaign than is usually shown in canvasses occurring the year after a presidential election. This is the case in all the states which hold elections this year. It means that the apathy which generally hits the winning party of a presidential campaign in the election immediately succeeding is not going to strike the republican party this time. The papers on the morning of the first Wednesday of November are likely to convey very pleasing news to republicans from various parts of the country.

SIGNS ALL AGREE.

Iron usually may be trusted as a trade barometer and its indications this week are encouraging. Production is increasing and prices are rising. The gain in prices is somewhat slower than that in production, but it is steady and natural. A month or two ago, and for a considerable period previous to that time, the iron market was stagnant but the general trade rally generated activity there as in all other interests. Almost every article of common use is higher than it was three months or six months ago. The Bryanite stump speakers and editors are mistaken when they say wheat is the only thing which has gone up.

HARD ON THE POPS.

The deficit will end a good deal sooner than popocrats hoped, for revenues are on the increase. There will be no bond sale for gold or any other sort of currency. In fact, the treasury's gold stock keeps right on increasing, regardless of the feelings of the pop papers. The oldest inhabitant does not remember another such a run of bad luck for any party as that which has been hitting the poor pops very month for the past year.

Mount Tomonoy, locally known as "Tomboy" in the state of Washington, is the newest gold seekers Eldorado. Gold has been found in paying quantities and it is neither so hard or so dangerous to reach as the Klondike region.

Fitz Lee says he wouldn't be surprized if he were a candidate for Senator Martin's seat. Evidently Fitz Lee doesn't think the silver craze will last until the senatorial campaign is closed, because he is anything but a silver man.

Perhaps the government of Great Britain thinks the announcement of its intention to spend a lot of money in strengthening the defenses of Canada will assist its ambassador to negotiate a new arbitration treaty with us.

Emperor William probably thinks the new North German Lloyd steamship, Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse which broke the record on its maiden trip between Southampton and New York, was named after him.

The prosperity festival of Kansas, at Topeka, is a great success, just as the prosperity of the state, and of the rest of the country, is great and growing greater every day.

President McKinley found himself just as popular in New England as he is in his own state, although he was not the first choice of that section for president.

As his personal contribution to the happiness of the community an Ohio orator is going around prophesying a business panic within six months.

What a hole has been made in the calamity platform adopted last June by Ohio and Iowa democrats!

Seth Low is now ready to agree that the managers of his boom were entirely too premature.

His Investment.

"Been making an investment, have you?"

"Well, I should say so."

"Does it look promising?"

"Oh, pretty fair, and there is a lot of money in it, if it turns out well."

"What is it?"

"Why, I've put a mortgage on a French count, and am waiting for him to marry an American heiress."—Chicago Post.

Discovered.

"I have found out at last," said the elderly boarder, "the new boarder is a bachelor."

"You don't mean to say that you asked him?"

"Nope. But last night, as we sat on the veranda, taking a smoke, he expressed the opinion that women rarely say what they really think."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

In the Air.

Old Lady—"Warm, isn't it?" Mabel (mopping her face)—"Yes. There's so much humidity in the air." Old Lady—"That's so. There, you've just missed one. It's right next to your nose." Mabel (jabbing at the point indicated)—"One what?" Old Lady—"Why, one of those that you said was in the air. I call 'em coal soots."—Cleveland Plaindealer.

A Wonderful Statement

From Mrs. McGillas to Mrs. Pinkham.

I think it my duty, dear Mrs. Pinkham, to tell you what your wonderful Compound has done for me.

I was dreadfully ill—the doctors said they could cure me but failed to do so.

I gave up in despair and took to my bed. I had dreadful pains in my heart, fainting-spells, sparks before my my eyes—and sometimes I would get so blind, I could not see for several minutes.

I could not stand very long without feeling sick and vomiting. I could not breathe a long breath without screaming, my heart pained so.

I also had female weakness, inflammation of ovaries, painful menstruation, displacement of the womb, itching of the external parts, and ulceration of the womb. I have had all these complaints.

The pains I had to stand were something dreadful. My husband told me to try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine, which I did, and after taking it for a while, was cured. No other kind of medicine for me as long as you make Compound. I hope every woman who suffers will take your Compound and be cured.—MRS. J. S. MCGILLAS, 113 Kilburn avenue, Rockford, Ill.

DEATH IN FLAMES A WEE GIRL'S FATE

LITTLE MARIE ALLISON'S FEARFUL ACCIDENT.

While Playing About a Bonfire Her Dress Was Caught and Before Friends Could Reach Her She Was All Ablaze—Mother Broken Down By the Shock.

Screams that told of a child's agony made hearts beat quicker on Court street last evening, but called help too late to avert the death of little Marie Allison, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs Andrew W. Allison.

The little one was so shockingly burned that the flesh dropped from her arms.

The accident happened between 5 and 6 o'clock and at 11:30 the child's suffering was ended by death.

Little Marie was playing alone on Harrison street near the corner of Court street, and had raked up a lot of dry leaves and corn husks. Irving, her seven year old brother threw some matches to her from a window, and she lighted a bonfire as she and her brother had done before during the summer.

Wrapped In Flames.

What followed can only be conjectured as no one saw her until she was a mass of flames and was running about in agony.

The fire must have spread rapidly in the dry husks and have caught her dress before she saw it.

When neighbors heard her screams her clothing was all on fire. Mrs. Allison was one of the first to reach the spot and carried with her a quilt. Miss Hattie Henderson a domestic employed by Mrs. V. P. Richardson, took the quiltand in spite of the child's frenzied movements wrapped it about her and smothered the flames.

Seven-year-old Irving Allison, who had been confined to the house by illness was one of the first to see his sister's mishap. Dressed only in his night gown he ran out of the house and did his best to beat out the flames before the quilt could be used. His boyish efforts were unavailing but he worked frantically not noticing the fact that his own hands were burned and raw.

Neighbors came running from all directions, and rendered what service was possible. Marie was carried into the house at once, but so shockingly was she burned that in the effort to apply ointment to the injured surfaces great masses of flesh fell away.

When Dr. J. F. Pember arrived a thorough examination was made, and it was found that no part of her body had escaped the fire, with the exception of the abdomen, head, neck and feet. Where the thin cotton dress had hung loosely, the flames had done their cruelest work. The wee hands that had beaten the fire as it crept up the dress, were so terribly burned, that the finger nails fell off

Hours of Suffering.

For several hours after the accident the little one was conscious and her sufferings were pitiful. Finally the shock began to have its effect on her nerves and although she was still able to talk it was seen that her sufferings were nearly over. She lingered until 11:30 when death intervened.

Mrs. Allison was hardly able at first to realize the extent of her loss. Today the full burden of her sorrow seemed to have come upon her and she was almost crazed by grief. There were fears for a time that she would break down under the strain.

Father On the Road.

Mr. Allison was away when the accident occurred and it was impossible last night to locate him. This morning the long distance telephone was used and every station in Illinois was called. He was finally reached in Galesburg and got home at noon, being met by a sympathetic neighbor at the depot.

To both the parents the blow was a terrible one. Little Marie was a lovable child and by her winning ways had made herself a general favorite. Neighbors whose hearts she had won realized the more keenly how deep a loss had befallen the afflicted parents and were unremitting in their efforts to be of assistance.

Funeral services will be held at the home Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

TOWN COMPANY SUES POLICY HOLDERS

VITAL POINT RAISED BEFORE JUSTICE PATTEN.

Suit Begun By the Harmony Organization Against Lackner Bros. is Likely to Have An Important Bearing on All Mutual Fire Insurance in the State.

Justice L. F. Patten was asked today to pass upon the merits of an insurance suit, in which the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance company of the town of Harmony is plaintiff and W. A. Lackner and Courtland Lackner are defendants. The company sues for an assessment amounting to about twenty-five dollars. The Lackners took out $2,300 insurance last fall on their buildings and stock at Indian Ford. Shortly after this they cancelled the policy, and claim that the assessment for which they are now sued was not levied until they had left the company. Two questions of interest to the hundreds of members of mutual insurance companies throughout the county are to be decided:

Does a justice of the peace have jurisdiction over such cases?

Are the defendants liable for the assessment in question?

The case was adjourned one week, so that additional evidence could be presented, and it is stated that whatever the outcome, the matter will be taken to the circuit court. E. D. McGowan appears for the company and J. J. Cunningham for the defendants.

Other cases are likely to follow this one, as several other policy holders decline to pay the assessment, and claim to have left the company. Before the matter ends the power of township insurance companies to collect assessments of any kind is likely to be tested, as the standing of every township company in the state is likely to be involved in this suit.

WIFE STICKS BY HAMMAS

Horse-Stealing Case Brings Into Prominence a Young Wife's Devotion

It didn't look very cheerful for Harry Hammas this morning, as the first part of the forenoon was consumed in hearing evidence against him in the horse-stealing case. At 10:30 o'clock witnesses were called on the part of the defense. The witnesses called during the day were John Hammas, Dr. E. D. Roberts, Henry Hammas, Eugene Brotherton, Mrs. John Hammas, Daniel Ryan, William Smith and James Murphy. It is reported that the case will go to the jury early tomorrow.

Hammas' wife, who is a slender, eighteen year old brunette and very girlish-looking, has sat beside him ever since the trial opened. Before the horse stealing case came up Hammas had applied to Judge Sale to be appointed his wife's guardian, the bonds proposed being $2000. No action has been taken, however, the criminal prosecution intervening.

WINTER FASHIONS.

Kid Shoes to Match the Costume—Spangled Gauze Trimmings.

Flat trimmings, such as braid and galloon, are coming in for a great share of fashionable favor, perhaps as a revulsion from the frills and furbelows so much worn for many months. From simple mohair bands to the most elaborate embroideries the choice ranges, and these flat strips of decoration are arranged so as to form all sorts of square, curved and pointed designs.

Shoes of fine kid, either glace or mode, are worn to match the gown and hosiery for evening occasions and everyday receptions.

Spangled and beaded gauze, illusion and tulle are seen in profusion for use in ball and other evening costumes. A novelty in transparent fabrics is entirely composed of tiny ruffles of fine white net edged and studded with spangles. Closely shirred gauzes are also something new, and are to be had by the yard.

Many of the new moire silks are very beautiful. There are several novelties in watered effects, which show to especial advantage in pale, delicate colors.

Belts of gold or silver webbing, or else embroidered with gold, silver or steel, are much worn and brighten up a quiet costume very prettily. A high collar to match sometimes finishes the neck of the gown.

The picture given today illustrates a loose sack with a watteau plait falling from the neck at the back, but having a perfectly plain front. It is of black cloth, the lower edge being cut in scallops. The flaring collar is composed of rounded tabs, which are heavily embroidered, as are the straps fastened over the shoulders by horn buttons. The sleeves are of a bell shape and are scalloped and embroidered. The front closes with square horn buttons and is finished by a jabot of lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

VARIOUS NOTES.

Colors In Stationery—Jackets and Capes. Serviceable Cloth Gowns.

Among the fashionable shades of stationery are light mauve, pale gray and pale green. White and cream are always in style. If sealing wax is used, it is chosen to match the paper. Often it is brightened by flakes of sparkling metal, gold or silver, giving a pleasing effect.

For light, fanciful gowns, in silver gray, rose and other delicate tints, voile, crepe de chine, taffeta and fine cashmere are employed, and they are trimmed very attractively with white satin.

Jackets are worn of various lengths and are additionally distinguished by different styles of pockets, revers, buttons, applications of embroideries, braid and passementerie. Capes of cloth are also much seen and are often made en suite with the costume. Long coats are included in the list of fashionable wraps and are worn both loose and tight.

Cloth gowns are highly favored at present. In fact, a well cut, well trimmed cloth costume embodies the very spirit of the mode and leaves nothing to be desired as an exposition of fashion. Woolen goods which are not, strictly speaking, cloth, but have its thickness, softness and general qualities, are treated in the same way and ornamented after the same method.

Now that skirts are becoming more decorative in character there is a fancy for distinguishing the front in some way. The tablier is often framed in panels or quilles, or it is arranged to button on one or both sides. The edges may be straight or cut into fanciful shapes or elongated into straps, which are fastened in place by buttons or buckles.

Some of the new models of jackets are only half fitting, instead of being close. This style is never really pleasing, being neither one thing nor another, but every now and then [illegible] to favor temporarily, as a change probably, for there is nothing to recommend it otherwise.

The illustration shows a wedding costume of white satin. The skirt has a long train, the fullness being gathered in at the waistband at the back. The bodice is tight at the back and draped crosswise in front, having a guimpe of white mousseline de soie trimmed with plaitings of mousseline. The close sleeves are slightly gathered and open at the shoulders over plaitings of white mousseline de soie, a knot of orange flowers being placed at the opening. Orange blossoms are likewise arranged at the left shoulder, with a white satin bow. The collarette and sleeve frills are of lace, the veil of illusion.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Jeweled Belts For the Fall.

Jeweled belts will be the particular fad of the fall girl this year. Those which the shops are now displaying are wonderfully beautiful.

They are made of a great variety of semiprecious gems and are mounted artistically with cast steel, old silver or French gilt.

Some of the belts are made of a series of clasps, each clasp mounted with a single large gem. The clasps are connected with fine chains and have for their foundation a band of ribbon velvet. These belts are specially desirable, as they may be used on many occasions with a different effect by merely changing the velvet ribbon. An exquisite belt of this description was made of openwork clasps of old silver. Each clasp was set with a changing green malachite and the whole belt mounted on faint rose pink velvet.

Another belt was made of cut steel clasps set with turquoise and having black velvet ribbon as the foundation.

Many of the new belts are formed of a variety of stones and bits of enamel wrought into one design. These belts are most effective when worn with a gown of the new novelty goods.

In selecting one of these belts to wear with a special gown it should be remembered that to produce the best effect the predominating tint of the dress goods must be carried out in the jewels of the belt. For example, in a dress where prune is the most prominent color, no matter what other stones are used to form the belt, amethysts must be the most in evidence.

Topaz forms magnificent belts and olivines and tourmalines are also effective. The jeweled belts vary in width from 1½ to 3½ inches.

Buckles gleaming with jewels will also be very much worn. The most striking are large jeweled butterflies. Either silver or gilt is used for the frame work of the butterfly. Then one large stone forms the body. The wings are studded with tiny stones.

Besides clasping a belt these buckles are used to hold the drapery of the skirt in place. They can be bought in a variety of sizes.

Buckles, old fashioned in shape and made of French gilt wrought with cut steel, are another of the novelties shown. Enameled buckles are in favor, and buckles of old coins are one of the season's fads.—New York Journal.

The Return of Poplins.

Poplins are "coming in," and both plain and figured patterns are to be seen. Bright plaids, checks and stripes are exceedingly effective and look as though they might be very durable. All the Scotch plaids are fashionable, and many new plaids have been recently designed. On a dark brown, blue or black background the bright colors stand out clear and sharp. They will be made up in skirts to wear with plain short coats for school frocks and will be greatly used for combining with other materials for vests, sleeves and trimmings.

The plain colors in the poplins are much smarter and will be worn with velvet waists and jackets. A dark brown trimmed around the skirt with black and gold braid has a short blouse of brown velvet with vest of yellow satin. At the belt and fastening the collar are gold buckles, which show to great advantage against the dark brown. For children's frocks poplin is a capital material, as it wears well and always looks smart. It is not, however, suitable for school frocks, and under all circumstances should be simply made. Dark brown, blue and scarlet are the best colors.

There are many different kinds of poplin. Some, classed under the head of novelties, have dots of white or black silk, and are suitable for reception costumes. One in gray flecked with white has recently been made up, the skirt plain and with little or no flare, the waist a lace blouse over yellow satin, with a bertha of the poplin cut in squares and edged with a band of guipure lace. This bertha is quite long, and there are points which fall over the sleeves. Collar and belt are of yellow velvet finished with long pointed bows.—Harper's Bazar.

Claret stains upon damask will yield to sherry, gently applied. Fruit stains should be treated with salt and water. Varnish and paint spots should first be covered with butter and then be rubbed with turpentine.

THE CONTEMPORARY SUITOR.

Time was that Strephon, when he found
A Chloe to his mind,
Sought not how Dun reported her,
Nor lagged while time distorted her,
But rushed right in and courted her
As nature had designed.

It's different now. My Lucy, there,
How gladly would I woo,
But shapes of such monstrosity
Confront with such ferocity
My impecuniosity--
What is a man to do?

Strephon and Chloe had a hut,
And, though about the door
The wolf might raise his serenade,
No latter day menagerie bayed
Its warning grim to man and maid,
"Wed not if ye are poor!"

But I—what monsters must I face
When I for Lucy sue;
What landlords roaring for their rent,
What troops of duns by grocers sent,
And shapes of want and discontent
Calamitous to view!

Stay, Lucy, stay! I'm bold and stout.
I'll rout the grisly crew.
Be constant, love, and hope and wait,
And by the time you're thirty-eight
I may perhaps have conquered fate,
And when I've won the right to mate,
If you're not too much out of date,
I'll surely mate with you!

—E. S. Martin in Editor's Drawer of Harper's Magazine.

"WHO MAKETH ALL."

The scholar sat in his study before his writing table, but he did not write. He leaned his elbow on the table and his head on his hand, and he was thinking of Phyllis far away in Ral Pindi with her husband. The table was piled with books—several stood open invitingly—and a fair white sheet of paper lay on his blotting pad—but he did not write.

Presently Jakes opened the door and said: "There's a young woman, sir, asking to see you. Shall I say you are engaged?"

"A young woman, Jakes?" queried the scholar. "What sort of a young woman, and from whence?"

"Well, sir," and Jakes closed the door behind him, "I do think she's from the circus as is on the village green."

"From the circus!" repeated the scholar. "What can she want?"

"She won't give no name nor yet no message, sir. Shall I say that you're engaged, sir?"

Jakes considered it the "height of impudence" that a hussy from the circus should dare ask to see his master and longed to send her about her business. Fine doings, indeed, for such as she to be asking for gentlemen, as bold as brass.

The scholar pondered, then he said half to himself: "Phyllis would like me to see her—she was always kind. Jakes, you can show her in."

Jakes departed, much displeased, and presently ushered a young woman into the room and shut the door after her carefully and in a fashion that said as plainly as possible, "Well, I wash my hands of this foolhardy proceeding."

The young woman advanced into the middle of the room and then stood awkwardly and said nothing. She was a tall, slight girl, attired in a variety of garments, startling in hue and having apparently no connection with one another. Her hair was brushed about her forehead and stuck out in a series of large "rolls" behind. The hair was crowned by a hat of portentous size adorned by several rather dejected looking feathers. But under the furze brush of hair the face was oval and almost beautiful in its regularity of feature and pure color.

The scholar rose and bowed, then with old fashioned courtesy he set a chair for her and, having seen her seated, murmured something shyly as "to what he was indebted for the pleasure of this visit."

The girl stared at him with wide blue eyes, then said abruptly: "I say! You're a knowin old cove, aren't you?"

The scholar stared a little at this description of himself and waved his hands in a deprecating way. The girl went on: "I've 'eard in the village as you are always a-studyin old books and knows all sorts of heathenish lingo. Now, do you know how to make a love poshin?"

The scholar gazed at her in speechless astonishment. Then he grasped the edge of his writing table for support and stammered, "Do I understand you to ask me if I know anything about love philters?"

"Yes, that's the ticket," said the girl genially. "I want a love poshin to give my young man. 'E's been and took up with Mlle. Leonore, what does the trials of strength, and I wants to bring 'im back to me. You give me the perskiption and I'll ask the galipot to make it up. I was sure as you'd know."

The scholar felt quite sorry for her when he realized the disappointment he was about to inflict, she smiled so prettily and looked so pleased. He shook his head. Then he said gently: "I'm afraid I am quite unable to help you in this matter. I know nothing of such things; neither do I believe that they can have the smallest effect."

"But I thought you was always a-studyin ancient days," said the girl in an argumentative voice, leaning forward in her chair. "Do think—in some of them old books" (waving her hand in the direction of the book lined walls). "Ain't there somethink in some of them old books?"

"I fear not," said the scholar almost sadly. She was so eager, so much in earnest. The girl drew herself up in her chair and said abruptly:

"I'm a honest girl, I am."

"That I am sure you are, and therefore you need no love philters. Believe me, you are quite pretty and good enough to inspire love, an honest love, without recourse to magic." The scholar spoke persuasively. His voice was very gentle and his manner courtly. The girl winked her wide blue eyes and made a little swallowing motion with her throat. Then she coughed and continued.

"My father's brought us up strict, 'e 'ave. 'E doan't 'old with swearin for women, and if we was light 'e'd lay the 'orsew'ip about our shoulders, 'e would. 'E's clown in our show, 'e is."

There was silence for a minute in the big library. Then the scholar said gently: "Why do you want a love philter? Is the—man you are engaged to fickle?"

"Well, 'e runs after Mlle. Leonore, and I can't stand it, and I rates 'im, and 'e laughs at me, and I'm beastly miserable, I am."

The girl's voice broke, and great tears rolled down her cheeks. The scholar was much distressed. He was a very learned man and instructed in the best wisdom of many lands, but he had also studied diligently a book that requires no great erudition to understand, but only, what is quite as rare, a humble heart. A certain saying in that book, "But thou hast mercy upon all and winkest at the sins of men, because they should amend," came into his mind, and the trouble of this poor circus girl was very real to him. She wiped her eyes with a gayly bordered pocket handkerchief and said:

"What would a lidy do?"

The scholar pondered for a moment, then said diffidently and with extreme shyness: "I think that she would not—show that she minded; that she would try to be always sweet and good tempered and gracious, above all to Mlle. What 's-her-name. Don't let him think himself so precious, my child. We all value what is hard to obtain. He's too sure of you or he wouldn't tease you. If you are wise and if he is worth having—if he's worthy of you and of your good father—you'll find that all this nonsense will come to an end as a tale that is told."

It was a long speech for the scholar to make. He flushed a little as he made it, and the circus girl gazed at him admiringly, exclaiming:

"You are a knowin old cove."

The scholar shook his head and said humbly: "I fear I am ignorant in these matters. I have only known three women intimately in my life—my mother, my wife and my daughter."

"Is that what your daughter did—the young lidy as is just married?" she asked eagerly.

"I don't know what she did," answered the scholar gently. And indeed it was true, for the engagement had come upon him as a bolt from the blue while he was thinking of Phyllis as still in pinafores.

"Was she very 'ard to please?" persisted the girl.

Had Phyllis been hard to please? the scholar asked himself. He did not know. It had not taken long to please her, anyhow, so he said, "I don't know if she was hard to please, but I know that whatever she did was right and sweet and womanly, and you can do all that yourself, my dear."

"I wish I was a lidy," sighed the circus girl, "but father says as one can be as good a girl in a troop as if one was a Scripture reader, 'e do. I see as you're a sky pilot by yer choker. What do you say?"

"I quite agree with your father. He must be a most sensible man, and I wish I knew him. Believe me, a circus lady can be just as useful a lady as any other if she will only try, and I am sure you'll try."

The girl rose from her seat, so did the scholar. She held out her hand to him, and he took it, and the old man and the girl looked into each other's eyes.

"Goodby," said the girl. "I'm glad I came, though you are so iggorant about love poshins."

"I'm very glad you came," said the scholar heartily, "and, believe me, you need no 'love poshins.' You are quite charming enough without." The girl flushed up to the roots of the furze brush. Then the scholar said, "Would you like some roses?" The girl said, "Please, sir," in the shyest, smallest voice, and the scholar held the door open for her to pass out. Then he followed her across the hall and through the open front door. He took his pruning knife from his pocket and he cut her a great bunch of the roses that were famed throughout the county. Then he walked down the drive with her, and at the lodge gate he bade her goodby.

She started down the road and then, looking back and seeing him still standing at the gate, she ran back, saying breathlessly: "I wish you'd come and see me ride. I can jump through the 'oops beautiful, I can. I should like to show yer."

The scholar's eyes were very kind, but he shook his head, saying: "I'm getting an old man, my dear. I hardly ever go out at night."

"But there's a matinee—an afternoon show," she explained, "this afternoon."

The scholar wavered, then the beseeching blue eyes caught his and held them. "Phyllis would like me to," he muttered; then, "I will come and see you ride this afternoon."

"I shall look out for you, mind," said the girl. "Don't you forget."

The scholar did not forget—he went. —Windsor Magazine.

Better Than Wealth.

It is a laudable ambition which prompts any person to earn and to save a portion of the earnings. The foundations of most if not all of the colossal fortunes of the rich people in the world had their beginning in that way. But there are better things in the world than wealth. Good health is one of them. We are quite apt to envy the possessor of great wealth, but far more is to be envied the man or woman with robust health, unwavering courage and the disposition to go through life with a song and a smile. The happiest people in the world are those who work and work cheerfully.—Housewife.

Gold From Sea Water.

To extract gold and silver from sea water automatically a tank is placed over the water at the right height to be filled as the tide ebbs, a valve preventing the escape of the water through the inlet pipe, compelling it to flow out through a filtering material composed of alternate layers of coarse and fine carbon covered with a layer of wire cloth.

VISITS HIS OWN GRAVE.

A Kansas Postmaster Who "Played 'Possum."

On July 16 the assistant postmaster-general appointed A. W. Hall postmaster at the village of Trading Post, this county, says a La Cygne (Kas.) correspondent in St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The only remarkable thing about this transaction is that, according to the war department records, Mr. Hall is dead and the government has discharged its obligation toward him by placing a tombstone over the place where he is supposed to be buried.

The town of Trading Post is within three miles of the Missouri state line. During the war Mr. Hall, then a young man, enlisted in the union army and saw considerable irregular service fighting the bushwhackers, who swarmed over the country and terrorized the inhabitants. One day a company of ten soldiers, of whom Hall was one, and an officer were detailed from a company of scouts to cross the state line and forage for provisions, the Kansas settlers having been pillaged until nothing was left. Hardly had they crossed the line before 100 bushwhackers swooped down upon and captured them. Without a moment's hesitation the captain of the guerrillas ordered their execution. They were taken to the summit of a large mound about a mile west of the line and shot down like dogs. Hall fell with the rest, shot through the head, but did not lose consciousness, and heard his executioners discuss the advisability of wasting another round of ammunition. Large numbers of union men were in the vicinity and the marauders made haste to recross the line and seek safety farther east.

Hall was found by friends, was taken care of and recovered, but was reported as killed to the war department. To this day he is known over the country as "'Possum" Hall. His dead comrades were buried about two miles from Trading Post, and a few years ago the government erected a slab to mark the graves, bearing Mr. Hall's name, in addition to those of the dead soldiers.

Thus it happens that if the postmaster so desires he can ride out and visit his own grave and read the record of his death.

Remarkable Progress of a New Store.

THE LEADER is enjoying an immense trade, which, considering the comparatively short time it has been in business, is remarkable. There are plenty of good reasons why it should have a large majority of the economical buyers as its customers. First--THE LEADER carries the stock that has not its equal in Southern Wisconsin for variety or quality. Second--Its prices on goods of every description are lower by half than than any other dealer's in this section of the country. THE LEADER discounts every bill and secures the very lowest figures obtainable on all commodities, and it sells articles for what other stores pay for them. Third--THE LEADER has a business principle that wins friends for it with each transaction no matter how small it may be; it treats everybody alike, does not take advantage of anyone, does not make one price to one person and another to the next. A child can get the same courteous treatment in its one-cent purchases as the older person with his $25 or $50 investments. THE LEADER is a department store; it sells everything and anything that is of use to the human family; its stock is increasing every day, new lines are being added constantly, and every new idea that can be thought of in connection with THE LEADER'S popularity with the public is being acted upon. Our store is always crowded; you wonder why? If you have a purchase to make and come to us for it you won't remain puzzled long. A guaranteed saving of 25 to 50 per cent. on all lines; its low prices and reliable goods make lively purchasing.

EVERYTHING THAT IS MADE IN

Tinware, Graniteware, Agateware, Hollow-Ware, Steelware, Kitchen Utensils, Hardware, Willow-Ware, Woodenware, Etc.,

...THE STOVE YOU BUY...

We sell you a heating or a cooking Stove 35 to 45 per cent. cheaper than you have been in the habit of paying; a man of lifelong hardware and stove experience in charge of the department--Mr. Adam Sanner; he sees personally to every Stove, to setting up all Stoves and looking after all details. The easiest way to be convinced of any matter is to come in personal contact with it; that's what what we want you to do in THE LEADER'S case--come and see for yourself, get acquainted with facts; take nobody's word, get our prices, see our goods and you will know then how truthful every statement we have made is, We welcome you, buy or not as you please.
